If the universities and colleges disappoint the public need, the professional periodicals have to teach pharmacotherapy and to proselyte some zelotic surgeons. The Western Medical Times is taking the first step in this di rection. For a modern scientific physician it is insufficient to enliven the old pharmacotherapy of the five thousand years past. It may be understood by parallelism. Soaps have been manufactured and used in the time of old Roman emperors and soaps are still manufactured and used today. The old Romans found different fats or oils and different wood ashes use ful for soapmakers. By an empiric way they had to search new formulas for every new material used. The modern soapmaker asks the chemist for an analysis of the fatty materials and the alkaline materials and calculates as the...
